I learned about a new culture that exemplifies diversity. The hands-on experience allowed me to gain both knowledge and confidence as a future SLP. My favorite part was seeing first-hand the impact we made on the community. I will forever remember my time in the Dominican Republic. – D. Gregory, Biola University, 2017

A Program Just For You!

Therapy Abroad and the Southern University Department of Speech Language have designed a 9-Day faculty-led program For June 1-9, 2019!

This program was designed for students who want to take advantage of working alongside professional ASHA accredited speech-language pathologists (SLPs) and Southern University Faculty in order to gain hands-on experience in a real world setting, practice, observe, and learn more about Speech-language pathology, gain deeper insight into university curriculum, travel and learn more about a new culture.

Students will provide essential services such as speech & language screenings, formal assessments, informal assessments, diagnostics, and therapy sessions for school aged children. Students will also participate in a home health community based rehabilitation program and other activities designed to increase cultural competencies. Each day students will have group discussion as well as one on one time with faculty and other professionals. You will learn, observe, share ideas, and work on developing critical skills.

“What an outstanding and unique program!! I highly recommend this program to any future SLP, or licensed SLP who is thirsty for a diverse hands on experience. As a licensed speech language pathologist, who was in the role of a supervisor for this trip, I grew immensely as a professional. I will practice differently and develop new skills sets because of this experience. Last but not least, the food is exceptional!! Dr. Alayna Townsend P.h.D., CCC-CLP, University of Houston
